Alabama Emergency Management Agency unveils a new user friendly website

CLANTON-The Alabama Emergency Management Agency wants to ensure Alabama residents have all the information they need to be prepared for all disasters, natural or man-made. To assist residents with this mission, AEMA Director Brock Long and the AEMA IT staff have worked hard to create a new website at www.ema.alabama.gov.

This new site is designed to be more informative, user-friendly and a virtual tool-kit. The site shows families how to create a family disaster plan, build a disaster supply kit and get in depth information on a variety of topics, every thing from Hurricanes to Biological threats.

“As an agency we are always asking Alabamians to be prepared, so we feel it is important to give them a basis to help them create family preparedness,” said Director Brock Long. “Although this website contains a lot of information, my staff is constantly working to find new ways to make it better.”

During active disasters, the media may find the page entitled “current situations” helpful. This page will offer the latest news releases, road closures and situation reports.
